WEBINAR RECORDING AVAILABLE

The National Offshore Wind Research and Development Consortium and the Business Network for Offshore Wind (Network) presented their first joint Manufacturing, Services, and Supply Chain Advisory Group (MSSC) Webinar.

The MSSC was created as part of the Consortium to promote participation and collaboration within the domestic manufacturing, service, and supply chain industries to support the nascent US offshore wind industry as part of the Consortium's objective to maximize the economic benefits of this industry to the US.

Through partnership with the Network and their targeted industry outreach, working groups and informational events, the MSSC intends to link states, offshore wind developers, and the research & development (R&D) community to a wider network of identified manufacturing, service, and supply chain industry contributors. In doing so, the Consortium hopes to help them identify proposal partners and gain valuable insight on future technology requirements to help reduce the cost of offshore wind in the US.
